Homework and other written assignments

Homework and other written assignments should be neat, organized, and easy to read, and the work should demonstrate a mastery of the material. While producing clear written assignments are essential for this class, getting into the habit of producing good quality written material will improve any work you do in the future.

Here are a few tips for producing quality written material:

- Always use proper grammar, sentence and paragraph structure, and spelling.
- Answers to questions or problems should be self-contained and written in complete sentences.
- When addressing problems that require calculations, show how you obtain the result. Show explicitly the equations you are solving and the solution. Also, state in words the result and the meaning of your solution.
- Pay attention to details. Work that looks sloppy or careless will not have the benefit of the doubt that comes with neat work!